

JOB DESCRIPTION.

INTERIOR DESIGNER

DATE 18.06.2019

BASIS Full-Time

Therefore is an emerging Architecture and Interior practice based in Fitzroy, Melbourne. We are seeking an experienced Interior Designer with a minimum of 3 (ideally 5+) years post-graduate professional experience to work across a broad range of project types. We are currently working on multiple private residences, a boutique workplace, bars, pubs, a nightclub, wineries and public spaces. The right applicant will have a strong interest in our current work as well as the ability to shape the future of our practice.

The role will call for both collaboration and leadership, with the candidate being encouraged to manage projects and further their experience in every aspect of the design process. We work with minimal hierarchy and a genuine respect for the input and ideas of every staff member. The right person will bring attention to detail, professionalism and a deep knowledge of design to the practice. We use Archicad and Adobe, while currently phasing out Autocad and Sketchup.

You would be joining a team of four in our studio space which we share with photographers, landscape architects and other designers. We value a balanced approach to our work, enjoying social time as well as attending events and engaging with the wider design community. We often share conversation, music & meals together; and the right person would fit seamlessly into our friendly, supportive and inclusive culture.

We work on an increasingly wide range of exciting projects. We aim to work on the most interesting projects for the most appreciative clients and above all, to maintain an enjoyable workplace environment. We intend to remain a small practice and will never pursue developer driven work at the expense of our ideals and culture.

This is a rare opportunity to further your career as a key member of our team. Flexible working conditions are possible for the right candidate and salary is commensurate with experience.
